DOCUMENT RESUME

ED 261 951 SO 016 828

AUTHOR Sanchez, James Joseph, Comp.; Madden, Gregory J., Comp.
TITLE A Businessman's Guide to the Economic Geography and International Trade of the People's Republic of China: A Selected Annotated Bibliography.
PUB DATE Sep 85
NOTE 20p.
PUB TYPE Reference Materials - Bibliographies (131)

EDRS PRICE MF01 Plus Postage. PC Not Available from EDRS.
DESCRIPTORS Annotated Bibliographies; Business; *Business Education; Higher Education; *Human Geography; International Relations; *International Trade; Marketing; Reference Materials; Resource Materials
IDENTIFIERS *China

ABSTRACT

Intended to support undergraduate curricula in international business, this annotated listing cites English-language materials dealing mainly with international trade and the economic geography of China. Also included are materials dealing with demography, public health, historical geography, and the geography of cities. All materials included are in the library collection at the University of Phoenix. The kinds of materials cited include bibliographies, guides, reference materials, U.S. government publications that provide brief overviews of relevant topics, directories, handbooks, and atlases. Many of the materials listed were published in the 1970's and 1980's; however, some items were published as early as the 1930's. For each item complete bibliographic information, call number, and a brief description are provided. (RM)

****
* Reproductions supplied by EDRS are the best that can be made *
* from the original document. *
****

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF EDUCATION
EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES INFORMATION CENTER (ERIC)

X This document has been reproduced as received from the person or organization originating it.

☐ Minor changes have been made to improve reproduction quality.

• Points of view or opinions stated in this document do not necessarily represent official NIE position or policy.

"PERMISSION TO REPRODUCE THIS MATERIAL IN MICROFICHE ONLY HAS BEEN GRANTED BY

James Sanchez

TO THE EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES INFORMATION CENTER (ERIC)."

ED261951

A businessman's guide to the economic geography and international trade of the People's Republic of China: A selected annotated bibliography.

James Joseph Sanchez
Information Specialist
University of Phoenix

and

Gregory J. Madden
Research Assistant

compilers.

September 1985

Copyright 1985
James Joseph Sanchez

SP 016 828

A business guide to the economic geography and international trade of the People's Republic of China: A selected, annotated bibliography.

The following brief bibliography provides the briefest of overviews of the immense literature on the People's Republic of China. The principle focus of this bibliography is on the recent period of increasingly open trade relations between the PRC and the rest of the world. Naturally, the English language materials reviewed here focus on US-PRC trade.

Many of the materials included below are very explicitly directed to the American businessman or businesswoman planning to break into the China market. This very aptly supports the principal goal of this bibliography, that is to support undergraduate curricula in international business.

In addition to narrowly defined works addressing trade and economic geography, this bibliography includes some mention of demography, public health, historical geography and the geography of cities.

1. Bartke, Wolfgang. Who's who in the People's Republic of China. Armonk, NY: M.E. Sharpe, 1981. xii+729 pp. DS 778 (Oversize).

   This work is a detailed listing of 54000 individuals on whom information has been published in PRC sources. People covered range from exemplary textile workers (Mao Xinxian) to living political leaders. Names are listed in Pinyin, although a Wades-Giles/Pinyin conversion table is appended. Includes many photographs. Where appropriate, entries include list of publications.

2. Bernett, A.Doak, editor. Who's who in Communist China. Two volumes. Kowloon, Hong Kong: Union Research Institute, 1969. DS 778.

   A very detailed biographical source on PRC political, economic and military leadership. Each entry includes a transliterated name, the name in characters and a detailed listing of known activities. Each volume concludes with a character-index of names.

3. Berton, Peter, and W.V. Eugene. Contemporary China: A research guide. Stanford, CA: Stanford University, Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace, 1967. 695p. Z 3106.

   An enumerative bibliography including 2226 citations. Subjects covered include geography, chronologies, atlases, law economics, serials, history, languages, etc. Includes subject and author-title indicies.

4. Blunden, Caroline, and Mark Elvin. Cultural atlas of China. Oxford: Phaidon Press, 1983. 237p. G 2306.

   A cultural atlas that includes some maps illustrating historical and economic topics. Maps are in color and the text has many illustrations. Special treatment is provided to ethnographic subjects. Includes index and gazetteer.

5. Byon, Jae-Hyon. Local gazetteers of southwest China. A handbook. Seattle: University of Washington, 1979. xii+140p. Z 3107.

   A bibliography to the gazetteers of Kwangsi, Kweichow, Szechwan and Yunnan provices. Includes a list of abbreviations, glossary, bibliography and a key to political subdivisions.

6. Catchpole, Brian. A map history of China. London: Heinemann Educational Books, Ltd., 1976. 143p. G 2306.

   An historical atlas of maps and script covering China from the ancient empires to 1977. The principal focus is military conflict and its impact on industry and trade. All maps are in black and white. Includes subject index.

7. Cheng, Peter. China. Santa Barbara, CA: Clio Press, 1983. 390p. DS 735.

   An enumerative bibliography including 1460 citations. The subjects covered include: medicine, law, geography, economy, finance and banking, foreign relations, agriculture, labor and employment, industry, trade and mass media. Includes a bibliography of bibliographies, and three indicies: author, titles and subject.

8. Cheng, Peter. A chronology of the People's Republic of China. From October 1, 1949. Totowa, NJ: Rowman and Littlefield, 1972. xvii+347p. Includes basemap of the provinces of China.

   A day-by-day chronology of the PRC from October 1, 1949 to December 31, 1969. Each item is several lines long, although generally without attribution. Includes a short index of domestic and foreign affairs items.

9. Chia, Chu Shih. A catalog of Chinese local histories in the Library of Congress. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1942. xi+552+21p. LC 17.2 C43 (Govt Doc).

   Almost entirely in Chinese, this catalog lists several hundred local Chinese histories. The text concludes with a 21 page index to the localities in transcription.

10. China Phone Book Company. The China map book. Beijing: China Phone Book Company, 1983. 8p. G 2309.

    A very schematic atlas of China covering 21 areas. For each area, the map covers roads, industrial and tourist areas. Foreign districts are listed. All maps are in Black and White.

11. Clarke, Christopher M., and Kathryn L. Dewenter, compilers. China Business Manual 1981. Washington, DC: National Council for US-China Trade, 1981. 318p. HF 3845.

    An introduction to the economy of China with emphasis on opportunities for trade. Subjects covered include: agriculture, energy, finance, foreign trade, industry, transportation, communications, science and technology, and provinces and municipalities. Concludes with a subject index.

12. Clarke, Christopher M., and Kathryn L. Dewenter, compilers. China Business Manual Supplement for 1982. Washington, DC: National Council for US-China Trade, 1982. 46p. HF 3845.

    An update of the previous cited item.

13. Conover, Helen F. China: A selected list of references on contemporary economic and industrial development, with special emphasis on postwar reconstruction. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1946. 118p. Z 3106.

    An enumerative listing of 1102 documents held in the Library of Congress. The topics covered are industrial and economic development. The volume concludes with a subject index.

14. Creamer, Thomas, and Sandra Hixson, compilers. Chinese dictionaries. An extensive bibliography of dictionaries in Chinese and other languages. Westport, CT: Greenwood Press, 1982. Z 3108.

    2739 enumerative citations to dictionaries divided by subject categories, such as general purpose, dialects, economics, forestry, geography, etc. Titles are given in characters, trasncription and translation. Each is cited with call numbers. Concludes with indicies by title and language. An appendix constitutes an addendum.

15. Dillion, Micheal. Dictionary of Chinese history. London: Frank Cass and Company, 1979. 240p. DS 733. Includes basemap.

    An introductory encyclopedic dictionary of Chinese geography, biography, history and philosophy. Entires are alphabetized by various transliteration systems. Pinyin is rarely used.

16. Doolin, Dennis J., and Charles P. Ridley. A Chinese-English Dictionary of Communist Chinese terminology. Stanford, CA: Stanford University, Hoover Institution Press, 1973. xiii+569p. DS 777.55.

    Beginning with an index to radicals, this dictionary includes thousands of vocabulary items. The title is a little misleading since most of the terms are colloquial expressions, geographic place names (including variants such as two spellings for Lhasa), etc. A very useful reference work.

17. Dunn, Robert, compiler. Chinese-English and English-Chinese dictionaries in the Library of Congress. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1977. vii+140p. LC 17.2 C43/5 (Govt Doc).

    569 annotated citations to dictionaries. Complete citations to each are provided, including call numbers. The annotations are quite detailed and very well done. Includes author, title and character indicies.

18. Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific. Guidebook on trading with the People's Republic of China. London: Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, 1984. 778p. HF 3837.

    A detailed United Nations sponsored survey of trade with the PRC: geo-economic setting, economy, foreign trade organizations, foreign trade operation and procedure, exchange control, customs administration, insurance, transportation, foreign inverstment, Special Economic Zones and more are covered. Concludes with a subject index.

19. Fullard, Harold, editor. China in maps. London: Philip and Son, Ltd., 1968. 25p. G 2305

    Including a few historical maps, the focus of this atlas is contemporary economic issues: climate, agriculture, minerals, industry, and population. Includes tables, charts and graphs. A good introductory atlas.

20. Ford, Mark, and Leo B. Welt. Information Peking. Second edition 1981/1982. Washington, DC: WeltPublishing Company, 1983. x+181p. DS 705.

    Includes much information on the structure of foreign trade enterprises and ministries responsible for development and industry. Lengthy sections focus on the City of Peking, Chengdu, Kunming, Nanjing and Shanghai.

21. Hanyu Pinyinban. Zhonghua Renmin Gunghequo Fen Sheng Difuji. Beijing: Hanyu Pinyinban, 1971. 51 color maps+169p. g 2305.

    An atlas with gazetteer. The gazetteer is accompanied by a phonetic character index to the gazetteer. The color maps show the political jurisdictions with principal cities illustrated in small inserts.

22. Harvard University Press. China, Japan and Korea. Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 1968. 494p. Z 3109.

    A shelflist of materials covering history, civilization, government, geography, economics, religions, and ethnic groups of China, Korea and Japan.

23. Herrmann, Albert. Historical and commercial atlas of China. Harvard-Yenching Institute Monograph Series, Volume 1. Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 1935. 112p. G 2305.

    About 50 black and white maps of china--many are very poorly done and difficult to read. Each map has a brief bibliography appended. The volume includes a detailed geographic place index and a table of characters.

24. Herrmann, Albert. An historical atlas of China. Chicago, IL: Aldine Company, 1966. 88p. G 2306.

    Ancient and modern China is portrayed in color maps covering: agriculture, population, ethnolinguistic, mineral and industrial regions. Also includes modern transportation centers, geographical and proper name indicies, and a list of Chinese characters.

25. Ho, Alfred K. Developing the economy of the People's Republic of China. New York: Praeger Publishers, 1982. 128p. HC 427.9.

    An overview of the economic development of the PRC for the period of 1949-1980. Topics covered include: foreign trade, agriculture, physical and economic geography, employment, distribution of income and commodities, planning and allocation of resources. Concludes with a 150 citation bibliography and a subject index.

26. Hsieh, Chiao-min, and Christopher L. Salter. Atlas of China. New York: McGraw-Hill, 1973. xv+282p. G 2305.

    A good basic atlas with considerable detail at the regional and minority regional level. Includes hundreds of black and white maps. Coverage of industries, minerals and agriculture is good. A section of historical maps concludes the text. Bibliography, glossary and indicies are included.

27. Huang, Han Chu, compiler. Chinese periodicals in the Library of Congress. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1978. iii+521p. LC 17.2 C43/6 (Govt Doc).

    A detailed compilation of periodicals listed by transliterated titles. The titles are given in transliteration, Chinese characters and translation. Holdings are noted along with call numbers. No index is provided but numerous cross-references are embedded in the text.

28. Hucker, Charles O. China: A critical bibliography. Tucson, AZ: University of Arizona Press, 1962. x+125p. Z 3101

    2285 partially annotated, descriptive citation. This bibliography covers "lands and peoples" (geography and ethnography), history, economic patterns, etc. Coverage begins with English language materials from 1940 on. Annotations are no more than two sentences.

29. Kaplan, Fredric M., and Julian M. Sobin. Introduction by John S. Service. Encyclopedia of China Today. Third edition. New York: Harper and Row, 1980. 446p. DS 705.

    An overview of China with major sections on geography, population, government, prominent figures, the economic system and trade. Appendices include the joint venture law, transliteration glossary of place names, sample import/export contracts, etc. Also included are bibliographies of periodicals from and on China, a bibliography of reference works, maps and chronologies.

30. Kim, T.W., and A. Wawrzyszko. A bibliographical guide to the study of Chinese language and linguistics. Carbondale, IN: Linguistic Research, Inc., 1980. 89p. Z 3108.

    An overview of the literature on Chinese language: textbooks, dictionaries, linguistics, phonetics, phonology, grammar and writing system. Concludes withan author index.

31. Lust, John, compiler, with the assistance of Werner Eichhorn. Index Sinicus. A catalogue of articles relating to China in periodicals and other collective publications 1920-1955. Cambridge, MA: W. Heffer & Sons, 1964. xxx+663p. Z 3101.

    A massive compilation of 19734 enumerative citations. Areas covered include geography, history, politics, foreign relations, economics, regions (such as Mongolia and Tibet), etc. Includes author and subject indicies. A fundamental compilation of great value.

32. Mackerras, Colin, with the assistance of Robert Chan. Modern China. A chronology from 1842 to the present. London: Thames and Hudson, 1982. 703p. DS 755.

Spanning the period from 1842-1981, the materials included are dividied into a few principle areas: economic, official appointments, etc. Includes subject/author and geographical indicies.

33. Metra Consulting. China: Business opportunities in the 1980s. London, England: Metra Consulting, 1980. 312p. HF 3837.

A guide to China for the businessman. Covers the economy, energy resources, raw materials, overseas trade, engineering, light and heavy industry, joint ventures and productivity. Includes many maps and tables. Appendix lists agencies to contact for more information.

34. Mickey, M. A bibliography of south and southwest China. Ann Arbor, MI: University Microforms, 1975. 162p. Z 3106.

Microform reprint of the 1948 Viking Fund listing of bibliographies for south and southwestern China. The citations have short annotations. Emphasis is placed on the non-Chinese ethnic groups of these regions. Arranged by author and lacks indexing.

35. Nathan, Andrew J. Modern China, 1840-1972. Ann Arbor, MI: University of Michigan Center for Chinese Studies, 1973. 97p. Z 3106.

An introductory guide to research aids and libraries with major holdings in Chinese Area Studies. The bibliography of research aids includes: chronologies, geography, biography and significant primary sources. Concludes with author and title index.

36. Pao, Ta Kung. China Handbook. Hong Kong: Kwong Yi Press, 1980. 476p. DS 701.

A reference guide that includes sections on geography, government, economy, national minorities, foreign relations, trade and tourism. Names are generally presented both in Pinyin and characters. Many illustrations are presented, especially of Chinese officials. Most sections include short articles (i.e. "Jinuo-A newly recognized minority nationality", pp. 318-319).

37. Pennwell Publications. 1984 Asia Pacific Annual. Tulsa, OK: Pennwell Publications, 1983. 208p. HD 9576.

An annual directory to the petroleum industry in Asia and the Pacific which includes much material on the PRC. Lists addresses of corporations doing business in China, ownership, country or origin, executives, products, provinces of operations and information on cable and telex addresses.

38. Perry, Phillip M. China business directory: A practical guide to trading with the People's Republic of China. Westport, CT: Technomic Publishing Company, 1980. 352p. HF 3836.5.

A businessman's guide to trade in the PRC. Topics covered include: geography, economy, foreign policy, light and heavy industry, transportation, telecommunications, condusting business with China, foreign trade corporations, hosting chinese delegations and travel arrangements. Concludes with a short bibliography.

39. Posner, Arlene, and Arne J. Dekeijzer. China: A resource and curriculum guide. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 1973. 278p. Z 3106.

While most of the text is devoted to general educational materials on China, Chapter 6 covers: history, sulture, state and society, economic studies, and US-PRC relations. The citations are listed by title and well annotated. Concludes with a directory of the publishers mentioned in the bibliography.

40. Pratt, K.L., and D.W.S. Gray. China: An index to European visual and aural materials including Hong Kong, Korea, Mongolia, Taiwan and Tibet. Hamden, CT: Archon Press, 1975. xvii+128p. DS 734.95.

A guide to films, filmstrips, loopfilms, maps, prints, recordings and slides. Introduction to materials is provided in English, French and German.

41. Quinn, Joseph P., editor. China medicine as we saw it. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1974. DHEW-75-684. xii+430p. HE 20.3702 C44/7 (Govt Doc).

A collection of artciles on medicine and especially public health issues. One article on Shanghai (Lamm and Sidel, "Public health in Shanghai. An analysis of preliminary data", pp. 109-144) includes numerous maps of Shanghai, demographic charts and many tables. Includes a subject index.

42. Quinn, Joseph R. Medicine and public health in the People's Republic of China. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1973. DHEW-73-67. xii+333p. HE 20.3702: C 44/3.

An overview of Chinese medical service delivery systems, concentrating on Public Health. Sections include traditional medicine, demographics and many specific fields of medical practice. Concludes with an author/subject index.

43. Sanchez, James Joseph, Gregory J. Madden and Terry G. Wilfong, co-compilers. Bibliography of universally available curriculum materials for the Chinese language. Pending publication by ERIC. i+13p.

This bibliography of universally available reference and language materials is intended to support undergraduate and graduate research. Includes dictionaries, glossaries, dialects and many complete language courses.

44. Scherer, John L., editor. China: Facts and figures annual. Gulf Breeze, FA: Academic International Press, 1984. viii+287p. DS 779.15.

An exhaustive and valuable statistical sourcebook on the People's Republic of China. Sections include the economy, demography, energy, industries, agriculture and transportation. Includes hundreds of tables and charts with scrupulous citation of sources.

45. Skalkov, P.E. Bibliography of China (Скалков, П. Е. Библиография Китая). Moscow, USSR: State Institute of Social-Economic Studies, 1932. 843p. Z 3106.

A Russian language enumerative bibliography listing 10360 entires. Listed by title, the topics covered include: history, science and technology, industry, cartography, economics, geography, etc. Concludes with author/subject index.

46. Society of Hong Kong Publishers. The China phone book and address directory. Hong Kong: Society of Hong Kong Publishers, 1985. Annual. 616p. DS 705.

An English language listing for Beijing, Anhui, Fujian, Gansu, Guang Dong, Guangxi, Hunan, etc.

47. Songe, Alice H., and Pauline B. Mangin. Educator's source book on China. A selected list of information resources. New York: K.G. Saur, 1981. 80p. Z 3106.

An enumerative bibliography on social studies, politics, economics, industry, etc. The materials are graded for elementary, secondary and post-secondary students. Includes list of periodicals, publishers and audio-visual distributors.

48. Sorich, Richard. Contemporary China: A bibliography of reports on China published by the US JPRS. New York: American Council of Learned Societies, and the Social Sciences Research Council, 1961. Z 3108.

An enumerative bibliography of the translations of the JPRS listed by accession number, which approximates a chronological listing. Lengthy items have table of contents listed.

49. Tanis, Norman E., David L. Perkins and Justin Pinto. China in books: A basic bibliography in western languages. Greenwich, CT: Jai Press, 1979. xvi+ 328p. Z 3106.

4058 enumerative citations on Chinese archeology, economics, geography, demographics, government, history, technology, etc. Includes a listing of 107 bibliographies and reference works. Concludes with author and subject index and a list of periodicals.

50. Tei-wei Hu. An economic analysis of cooperative medical services in the People's Republic of China. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1975. DHEW-NIH-75-672. vi+41p. HE 20.3702: C 44/9.

    This brief work describes the organizational structure of health care delivery and the economic provisions and linkages for public health. Includes charts of urban and rural health delivery systems and a brief bibliography.

51. United States. Army Department. China: An analytical survey of the literature. 1978 edition. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1978. D 101.22:550/9-1. ix+231p.

    An annotated bibliography covering both the Republic of China and 'Mainland China'. Includes listing of source materials, tables and numerous maps.

52. United States. Army Department. Communist China. A bibliographic Survey. 1971 edition. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1971. x+253p. D 101.22:550-9

    An annotated bibliography with sections covering: Ambition, Threat, the Communist Chinese Nation (economy, society and politics), the Cultural Revolution, and reference works. The 24 appendices cover documents, tables of organization, statistical materials, etc.

53. United States. Army Department. Communist China. A strategic survey. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1966. DA PAM 20-67. viii+141p. Z 3108.

    An annotated bibliography with documentary, statistical and map appendices. The sections of the bibliography include: national policy, military, economy, demography, and prinmary sources. The many appendices include chronologies, speeches, structure of the Communist Party and military posture tables.

54. United States. Central Intelligence Agency. CIA briefs on selected PRC cities. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1975. Various pagination. G 2309.

Selected cities are described in terms of their history, industry, tourism, geography, population and climate. Color maps for each city are provided which highlight transportation corridors and manufacturing areas.

55. United States. Central Intelligence Agency. People's Republic of China administrative atlas. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1975. 49p. G 2306.

This specialized atlas depicts territorial and administrative organization of the 29 provinces of the PRC. The atlas includes a glossary, romanization conversion tables, native and convential administrative names and a gazetteer. All maps are in color.

56. United States. Central Intelligence Agency. People's Republic of China Atlas. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1971. 82p. G 2305.

A detailed general purpose atlas of the PRC. The maps cover the regions, including Tibet and Sinkinag, the administrative divisions, population, ethnolinguistics, transportation, climate, agriculture, minierals, fuels and industry. Includes a gazetteer.

57. United States. Commerce Department. East-West Trade Bureau. The Chinese economy and foreign trade perspective-1976. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1977. 57p. C 57.402 C 44/976.

A brief overview of the Chinese economy. Topics include: economic policies and trands by economic sector, foreign trade, trade relations, telecommunications and trasportation. Concludes with appendices and statistical tables on import/export trade between the US and China.

58. United States. Commerce Department. Industry and Trade Administration. China's Economy and foreign trade, 1978-79. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1979. 27p. C 57.2 C 44/978-791.

A brief overview of PRC economic trends and policies, planning, industrial management, foreign trade, imports, exports and the Canton Trade Fair.

59. United States. Commerce Department. Industry and Trade Administration. Doing business with China. Revision. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1979. iv+44p. C 57.2 C 44/2.

A guide for the businessman attempting to enter the Chinese marketplace, covering the topics: approaching the market, contract negotiations, arbitration, currency, payments shipping and market profile. The text concludes with a brief bibliographic listing of additional resources.

60. United States. Health, Education and Welfare Department. A bibliography of Chinese sources on medicine in the People's Republic of China: 1960-1970. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1973. DHEW-NIH-73-439. xxiv+486p. HE 20.3711: C 44/960-70.

Several thousand enumerative citations in a union catalog format. The entries are divided into either monograph of article categories, and then are divided by subject area. Subjects range from oncology to public health to traditional medicine.

61. United States. Health, Education and Welfare Department. Topics of study interest in medicine and public health in the People's Republic of China. Report of a planning meeting. Washington, DC: Government Priniting Office, 1972. DHEW-72-395. x+75. HE 20. 3702: C 44/2 (Govt Doc).

Of special interest in this collection is the article by Dr. Telford: "Geographic pathology", including 13 maps of the medical geography of China (and Korea and Southern Siberia). Other sections cover population dynamics, traditional medicine, public health, etc.

62. United States. Health and Human Services Department. Rural health in the People's Republic of China. Report of a visit by the rural health systems delegation. Washington, DC: Government Priniting Office, 1978. NIH-81-2124. ix+207p. HE 20.3702 C 44/11 (Govt Doc).

Sixteen articles surveying rural health care in the PRC. Includes traditional medicine, the barefoot doctors, training systems, population and general public health. Includes subject index.

63. United States. Joint Publications Research Service. An atlas of Chinese climatology-Communist China. Washington, DC: Government Prinint Office, 1962. 162 maps+582p. JPRS-16321. G 2306.

Including 162 black and white maps illustrating the Chinese climate, the atlas covers: precipitation, wind roses, tempuratures, etc. Includes hundreds of tables and charts. Characters and map detail are difficult to read in hardcopy.

64. United States. State Department. Asia: Studies in progress. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1964-1968. Various pagination. S1.101 2.22-27 (Govt Doc).

A journal of enumerative bibliography listing by alphabetical oredr publications on China by country of origin. Covers all social science research on Asia by private scholars and academic institutions. Special attention given to health, economics, politics and industrialization.

65. United States. State Department. External research China and Asia. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1952-1964. Various pagination. S 1.101 s.1-21 (Govt Doc).

The earlier title contined by item 64 above.

66. United States. State Department. Research on the Far East and Asia--General and Regional. Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1952-1962. Various pagination. S 1.1015.1-21 (Govt Doc).

A companion series to the item 63 above which included enumerative bibliographies focusing on regional development, economic, communism and social conditions.

67. United States. State Department. United States relations with China (with special reference to 1944-1949). Washington, DC: Government Printing Office, 1949. 1059p. S 1.38 No. 30; 327.73 (Govt Doc).

A survey covering American policy towards China, the mission of General George C Marshall, economic developments 1945-47, economic reforms of 1948, American economic aid 1947-1949.

68. University of Chicago. Far Eastern Library. The University of Chicago Doctoral Dissertations and Masters' Theses on Asia 1894-1962. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago, 1962. 52p. Z 3009.

An enumerative listing of disseratations and theses including 630 citations. Listed by the author and is provided with a subject index.

69. Whitaker, Donald P., and Rinn-Sup Shinn, et al. Area handbook for the PRC. Washington, DC: American University and the Government Printing Office, 1972. 729p. D 101.22: 550/60/2 (Govt Doc).

An introductory overview covering: languages, education, labor, health, justice, railroads, ports, the banking system, industry, economics, and technology. Includes subject index, glossary and appendices of tables and maps.

70. Whitaker, Donald P., and Rinn-Sup Shinn, et al. Area handbook for the PRC. Revision. Washington, DC: American University and Government Printing Office, 1981. 577p. D 101.22:550/-60/3.

72. Williams, Jack F. China in maps 1890-1960: A selective and annotated cartobibliography. East Lansing, MI: Michigan State University, 1974. 365p. Z 6027.

Beginning with an account of modern mapping projects in China (Chinese, US, Japanese, British, German, French and Russian), this fine reference work covers the products of all these efforts. For most of the maps, the basemaps providing a key are included. For hundreds of maps, detailed annotations are provided. Includes bibliography and index.

73. Xinhua Publishing House. The China directory and Economic manual. Boston, MA: Science Books International and Xinhua Publishing House, 1982. 902p. HF 3833.

Although lacking an index, this survey manual covers engineering, transportation, light and haevy industry, the postal service, textiles, energy resources and production, foreign trade, tourism, banking, laws and regulations, monetary statistics, and an economic chronology. A section on how to trade with China is included.

74. Yuan, Tung-Li. China in western literature. A continuation of Cordier's Bibliotheca Sinica. New Haven, CT: Far Eastern Publications, 1958. xix+ 802p. Z 3101.

A very comprehensive enumerative bibliography. Includes general sections on geography, history, government, law, foreign relations, economics, etc. Deatialed sections address regions: Mongolia, Tibet, Sinkiang, Hong Kong, etc. Includes a listing of periodicals and over 100 other bibliographies. Chinese names are given in characters. Concludes with and author index.

75. Yuan, Tung-Li. Russian works on China 1918-1960 in American libraries. New Haven, CT: Far Eastern Publications, 1961. 162p. Z 3106.

1336 enumerative citations of Russian works on China and many subject areas: life, industry, travel, geography. These subjects are subdivided by region. Includes small sections on Taiwan and Tibet. Concludes with and author index and a periodicals list.